WEEK'S STRIKE PARLEYS FAIL

MURPHY, SLOAN CONFER

Both Feel Way Will Be Found To Settle Issue, Lewis Asks Roosevelt Aid

By The Associated Press

Another week of negotiations for settlement of the nation s major strikes—automotive and maritime—came to a fruitless end today with no immediate prospects sighted for a compromise

While federal officials pressed for solution of the widespread General Motors strike involving 135 000 workers opposing leaders gave no hint of intentions to yield

The deadlock in the west coast maritime strike affecting 40 000 workers reached its 86th day City and county officials in San Francisco appealed for congressional action to end the dispute and mapped plans to request presidential intervention

Gov Frank Murphy of Michigan and Alfred P Sloan Jr president of General Motors both of whom conferred with federal officials during the week sounded a note of confidence

The governor said he did not consider the dispute an impossible situation Sloan said he was sure tha[illegible] a way will be found to solve the situation fundamentally in the near future

President Roosevelt gave no indication that he would intervene John L Lewis head of the Committee for Industrial Organization said perhaps we have confidence that in the end the President will do what is necessar[illegible]

Violence marked the maritime controversy on the west coast yesterday Thirty three men were arrested in San Francisco after a fight between union stevedores and members of a rival organization Four men were seized after 400 strike sympathizers rioted at Inglewood Calif

Prospects of settling the Minnesota lumberjack strike were considered bright. A two-day strike in the Firestone Steel Products Co plant at Akron O involving 700 men ended by union order Federal official sought peace in

The indictment went far beyond the Zinovieff Kameneff conspiracy accusations of last year by charging Radek and the other conspired directly with the secret agents of Germany and Japan to wreck the Soviet government

Many of the charges were based on a letter which Trotzky allegedly wrote to Radek in December of 1935

In this he is stated to have said "We shall have to yield the oil of Sakhalin (a Soviet Siberian island) to Japan and guarantee her a supply of oil in case of war with America."

(Sakhalin island is a Russian possession off the east coast of Siberia on which are rich oil deposits. Japan owns the southern part of the island.)

PORTSMOUTH O Jan 23—Men women and children are poking their heads out windows down here begging to be rescued

They thought this flood wouldn t amount to anything and that they could stay in the second stories of their homes Now there's not enough boats to reach all of them.

At least 20 who stayed too long nearly drowned in those cold, muddy waters covering half this city and a 10-mile populated area along the Ohio river front.

I've been through three floods and this is the worst. I thought the ones in 1907 and 1913 were bad, but all you've got here now

COLD CURBS OHIO'S SECONDARY FLOODS

Heavy Snowfall Brings Road Crews Out With Plows, Seven Inches at Urbana

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O Jan 23—Colder weather generally in Ohio brought the prospect of relief to many sections where flood conditions were overshadowed by the more serious Ohio river situation

Many points had heavy snowfalls during the night with the temperature dropping into the low twenties and high teens as the weather cleared today

In the Urbana vicinity a seven inch snow was reported Highway crews at first busy with filling washouts from overflowing creeks turned to plowing the roads free of drifts

Columbus recorded three inches of snow and temperatures around 20 degrees.

Near Zanesville, junction of the Licking and Muskingum rivers three to four feet of water still poured over the famous "Y" bridge

The Hocking river, after blocking roads at Logan and Athens gave promise of receding

Marietta, pioneer settlement of the northwest territory, was paradoxically wet and dry Ohio river waters, expected to reach a 48-foot crest, swirled in the streets, but there was not a drop of liquor to be had

The state liquor department closed its store, and bars followed suit.

The river here was rising two-tenths of a foot an hour from a crest of 46.5 feet at 3 a. m., which was six-tenths of a foot [illegible] than the crest of the [illegible] inundation.

FLOOD RELIEF FUND SOUGHT

Marion County Asked By Red Cross To Raise $800 Immediately

DRIVE LAUNCHED TODAY

Chapter Lays Plans To Help Relieve Suffering in Stricken Territory

Marion county today was asked to raise $800 within the next few days in the first appeal made by the American Red Cross for flood relief funds

Immediate response was urged Harry F Margwarth chairman of the Marion County Red Cross chapter began mobilizing his forces this morning

Boxes were placed in the banks and uptown business places this morning and afternoon to receive contributions Ministers will make appeals in all churches Sunday

Palace and Ohio theater managers today came forward to aid the flood sufferers by giving time between programs this afternoon tonight and Sunday to audience solicitation of funds

Contributions also will be received at the chapter headquarters on the second floor of the Y M C A on South State street Shut-ins or residents of the city who wish to contribute and who will be unable to be in the uptown district tonight or Monday have been asked to call Mr Margwarth at 7211 Sunday and 2238 tonight

Quick response is imperative to bring relief to persons in the flooded area Mr Margwarth said

The telegram received at the chapter office this morning read as follows

"In order to meet hourly increased needs of flood victims in eight states the Red Cross is calling on people of the United States for minimum funds of $2 000,000 Reports received late tonight (last night) indicate a total of 270 000 men women and children driven from their homes and now depending on Red Cross for emergency relief, including food, shelter, bedding medical attention, and warm clothing Raging blizzards and freezing weather in many flooded sections add to suffering of refugees and greatly increase the need for instant relief. The American Red Cross feels sure people of your community will wish to aid promptly and generously. We urge you to take immediate action to raise your chapter quota of $800"

Miss Lillian Flack, chapter executive secretary, said today that the national disaster fund of money raised for flood relief last spring and from a part of the [illegible] of each membership [illegible] to the national office has been [illegible] handed in the [illegible] last week [illegible] peal [illegible]

FLOODS AT A GLANCE

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt issued a proclamation today asking the nation to raise $2,000,000 as a "minimum relief fund" for flood victims in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys The President said 270 000 persons had been driven from their homes and that it was "imperative" that the people contribute to assist the Red Cross in providing immediate relief

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI O Jan 23 More than 75 000 Ohioans made homeless by a record Ohio river flood faced hunger and bitter cold today and the threats of fire and disease

While the river swirled past Cincinnati 72 8 feet deep—20 feet above flood stage—that city s fire chief warned of the danger of more than a million gallons of gasoline floating on three miles of the Mill creek bottoms

Meteorologist W C Devereaux in his report on river stages and forecast of trends at 2 p m today predicted that Cincinnati would see a crest Sunday or Monday of between 73 and 73 5 feet The river had been stationary for four hours

The latest forecast brought from President H C Blackwell of the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co a statement I am confident we can operate right through the flood—unless something unforeseen arises

Devereaux predicted fair tonight and Sunday with moderately cold temperatures as low as 15 or 20 degrees

The Cincinnati area strove mightily to care for 50 000 refugees while the Portsmouth district 100 miles upstream reported 20 000 of its 70 000 residents homeless

A milk and food shortage threatened in industrial Portsmouth half covered with water to a depth as great as 11 feet

Damage here was officially set at $1 000 000 while Cincinnati s loss was officially forecast at $5 000 000

In scores of other villages and cities along 200 miles of the Ohio in this state the story was much the same

Food Supply Conserved

Officials were bound to conserve the food supply—cut off by flood wrecked transportation facilities

Increasing the suffering of the homeless were temperatures below 20 in much of the flooded area

The Red Cross estimated that 41,500 persons were homeless in the metropolitan Cincinnati area alone Nearly 10 000 were quartered in schools, halls and other places along the river s 300-mile course on Ohio s eastern and southern borders

Dr F K Harder acting health commissioner reported general health conditions good

Flood suplies were reported adequate for the time being but in suburban Dayton and Bromley, Ky., the Red Cross and Salvation Army rationed refugees to two meals a day.

PORTSMOUTH O Jan 23 — Hunger cold sickness and the cries of hundreds of marooned persons plagued flood beleaguered Portsmouth today

Half of Portsmouth was covered by flood waters that were 11 feet deep in the business district Four inches of snow and freezing temperatures added to the hardship of the 25 000 forced to evacuate their homes in greater Portsmouth

The Ohio river stage was 67 1 feet at 2 p m and rising two tenths of a foot an hour The Scioto also poured a muddy flood tide over the city from the west

Food Shortage Acute

City officials described the food and milk shortage as acute and sought help from the outside Physicians were called throughout the night to care for children in refugee centers

Two flood laden national guard trucks managed to plow through flood waters to reach the city about 9 a m Officials said however a great deal more food was needed

A Red Cross special train with food and medical supplies was being prepared at Columbus to be sent here

Crews of rescue workers laboring desperately to evacuate all homes in the flood zone under the direction of Fire Chief Robert Leedom reported that several hundred persons were begging to be rescued

Dairies Send Milk

Two Columbus dairies dispatched trucks bearing about 4,700 quarts of milk to the Portsmouth zone

Distributors were informed two of Portsmouth s four large dairy plants were under water and the two remaining were able to obtain only a small fraction of the normal supply of milk

Leedom said a shortage of boats made rescue work difficult

Heavy pressure of the debris-laden brown tide undermined at least 10 houses, Leedom said, throwing a score of persons into the cold waters when they collapsed. Leedom was advised all had been rescued.

High waters closed all fire department houses except one in the hilltop district Firemen mounted

Cold and Hunger Intensify Flood Refugees' Suffering

By The Associated Press

Human misery mounted in the nation's flood zones today as high water invaded new territory and the number of homeless and destitute exceeded 270,000. Cold and hunger increased the suffering.

The list of dead increased to 15, divided among these states: Ohio, 4; Illinois and Tennessee, 2 each; West Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri, 2 each, Mississippi and Pennsylvania, 1 each

Muddy flood waters crept slowly back to the rivers of Pittsburgh, their rise halted by a sudden drop in temperatures.

For several days they had climbed steadily, reaching across the fringe of the city's "golden triangle," covering waterfront districts and forcing hundreds of persons from their homes.

STRIKE, FLOODS CURB MARKET

Oils Utilities and Specialties Manage To Forge Ahead, However

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Jan 23 — With strikes and floods tempering market sentiment stocks found the going a bit difficult today although oils utilities and specialties continued to find favor

Transfers were around 1 000 000 shares

Stocks received little help from bonds and commodities the majority of which shuffled about unevenly

Share gainers of fractions to 2 points included Atlantic Refining Barnsdall Standard Oil of N J Amerada Pure Oil Consolidated Edison North American Container Corp Mead Corp United Electric Coal Mohawk Carpet Omnibus United Paperboard Penn Dixie Thompson Starrett preferred Johns-Manville Howe Sound Douglas Aircraft du Pont Delaware & Hudson and Southern Pacific

Narrow were General Motors Chrysler U S Steel Sears Roebuck U S Rubber Goodyear Western Union Anaconda Kennecott Santa Fe and Warner Bros

In the backward department were Westinghouse Indian Refining American Can General Electric J I Case Deere and Texas Corp

Strikes and floods tended to subdue boardroom sentiment before the start of trading

Carrier observers were revising earlier estimates of January traffic totals because of labor upsets and high waters With surcharges eliminated and taxes increased some quarters thought it unlikely aggregate net operating income for the month will show much improvement over the $35 000 000 taken in during the same 1936 period

In view of the forthcoming meeting of the open market committee of the federal reserve board banking circles renewed discussion of a possible hoist in reserve requirements

Sterling and the French franc were unchanged at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions the former at $4 90⅝ and the latter at 4 68⅝ cents

Asks Greater Interest

Mr Gahm opened his address with a plea for greater interest among farmers in the cooperative group. "Any successful cooperative for farmers ought to be and must be farmer owned and farmer controlled" he declared. "The stockholders of this group already own $23,000 worth of stock nearly twice as much as they did a year as I ... her ... own ... year ago.

Membership Grows

Since the Marion association was formed the membership has grown to 6? ... dividends have been paid and more will be paid Mr Gahm said until a sufficient reserve is built up to protect the members.

"Our earnings were more than $3,000 last year but we're putting it away. We're going to run into another depression some time. Why shouldn't we build up a reserve. A catastrophe here wouldn't affect your money source as long as you are a member of the association. Somewhere there is money and we can borrow it—as long as our reserves are up."

Mr Gahm explained the associations are not intended to supplant loan companies already in existence but to supplement them.

"There are too many unwilling lenders in the country today" he declared. "Merchants and business men who are forced to extend credit because of competition. It's far wiser for farmers to buy on a cash and carry basis. You can get your cash here as cheap as you ever got it in your life. Credit from merchants costs you anywhere from 12 to 40 per cent."

Highlights of Talk

Some of the highlights of Mr Gahm's speech are:

"I favor only one vote for members no matter how many shares of stock you have. A cooperative means equality.

"There is only one way to operate a cooperative—put all the facts before the members. Make the business simple and plain. There's no secrecy about this show.

"This is not a profit organization it is a service institution. If the service isn't all right then do something about it and do it now.

"The farmers of this nation are the best paying people in the world. Give a farmer a chance to plant something sell it—and he'll pay you back."

In substantiating this last statement Mr Gahm quoted figures showing how $30,000,000 has been loaned in this district since 1934 and only $9,000,000 is still outstanding indicating an unusually rapid turnover. Most of the loans are for crops, as the name of the organization indicates.

Wyandot County Speakers

Mrs Stever as the first woman ever to speak at a stockholders meeting pointed out that since farm women spend 80 per cent of the farmer's money she should be as much if not more interested in the credit facilities which the farm family uses.

She drew a comparison between the old method of farm credit with its haphazard machinery both for borrowing and collection and the modern credit system with its businesslike operation. The new system with borrowing simplified and with paying times fixed definitely in advance allows the farm wife to assist her husband in working out ways and means in advance to meet the payments. Timely economies and timely savings can now be arranged by the women where under the old plan the wife never knew how much or how soon the payments might be due Mrs Stever said.

She related the experience of her own family during the depression years. Credit then was difficult to obtain and the advent of the cooperative association was she said "Godsend to us." Mrs Stever is the mother of two children.

H L Wenner who lives in Carey but whose offices as secretary of the National Farm Loan association of Wyandot county are in Upper Sandusky explained the close interrelationship of the two groups. Both are working under the federal Farm Credit administration the one making long term loans on real estate and the other loaning for short periods on chattels.

The use of the Production Credit association has enabled the farmer properly and also to meet his regu properly and also to meet his regular installments on the long term loans Mr Wenner said.

Both associations are in the Fourth federal district with headquarters in Louisville Ky.

Increase in Soy Bean Acreage Seen Next Year

Predictions of a considerable increase in soy bean acreage and production in Marion and surrounding counties were made today by officials of Old Fort Mills Inc processors of the beans. Scores of farmers have visited or called the offices on North Grand avenue for information concerning the practicability of the crop in this district.

The present price of approximately $1.50 a bushel for the beans alone coupled with the fact that the beans do not cost any more than wheat for an acre are responsible for the interest in the crop. The steadily increasing prices of beans has resulted from the discovery of many new uses for the meal and oil company officials said.

In advising interested farmers the officials urged early purchase of seeds and testing of all beans for germination before planting.

Soy beans will grow almost any place that corn will grow and are exceedingly drouth resistant. Sandy or clay loams make the best oil. The beans respond well to any extra treatment which the farmer may give it. They may be planted anytime after severe frost danger is over as soon after corn as possible. It is also advisable company officials said to inoculate the soil before planting even if beans have grown previously in the plot. Use only bacteria from soybean nodules.

In preparing for planting plowing should be early and deep and the field should be harrowed at intervals before planting to clean out weeds. A good seed bed with a light loose covering of mellow soil well smoothed by the harrow is advised.

Company officials recommend thick planting using from seven to eight pecks an acre drilled solid. Shallow planting at a depth of not more than one or two inches is best since the percentage of seed which germinates decreases with depth.

Cultivation may be necessary before the beans are up officials said if the soil is heavy and forms a crust after rain. A light harrowing breaks the crust and destroys young weeds. For succeeding cultivations which should be started as soon as the seedlings appear the harrow will work. Cultivation should be continued until the plants are ready to bloom. After that any cultivation will break branches and reduce the yield of seed.

One of the most favorable factors in raising soybeans lies in the value of the vines which can either be used as silage or can be left on the ground as fertilizer. They contain considerable amounts of nitrogen potash and phosphate. As to their feeding value 100 pounds of pork on an all corn diet will cost about $7.50 while on a two-thirds corn and one third soybean pasture diet it costs somewhat less than $3.

Rotation of corn and soybean crops will also increase the corn yield as much as 12 bushel an acre over previous corn yields officials said.

WINS $50 VERDICT IN DAMAGE SUIT

Jury Makes Award After Trial in Court Here

A common pleas court jury yesterday awarded William Robbins judgment of $50 against John Abbott in his suit for $365 damages as a result of an automobile accident in December 1935 east of Caledonia on Route 98. Robbins had alleged Abbott had been negligent in permitting his car to remain on the road after a previous accident.

Abbott's car had apparently skidded on the ice and upset before Robbins drove up according to the court testimony. The lights on the Abbott car were broken and there was no warning of any kind to prevent him from crashing into the wreck Robbins said in his petition.

In a cross petition Abbott said his lights had jarred off and that he had made every effort to warn approaching motorists. He accused the plaintiff of negligence and asked damages of $25?.59.

The plaintiff's attorney was Paul M Jones while J C A Arter represented the defendant.

Story of The Popes

Crusades Against Holy Land Infidels Strengthened Church in 13th Century

This is the second of a series of six articles, giving a history of the long line of popes who have directed government of the Catholic church

* * *

By The Associated Press Feature Service

The Crusades and reforms within the Catholic church gave the papacy its grand epoch in the first half of the 13th century

Preached by Pope Urban II the Crusades were a phenomenal mass movement launched to wrest the Holy Land from infidel hands Hundreds of thousands flocked to the banner of the church to make the long perilous pilgrimage across the continent. To them was promised forgiveness of their sins for the work they were about to accomplish

The combination military religious pilgrimages which were the Crusades—so called from the crosses worn by participants—lasted from 1096 to 1291 Jerusalem was captured an event which stirred Europe to new religious fervor

French Kings Fight Rome

At the same time overhauling of the church structure gave to the Vatican the sole right to make episcopal confirmations outside of Rome a victory over the personal aggrandizement of local religious and secular leaders and doctrines favoring the Holy See over church councils became the immutable law of the Christian world

In all Europe except France—which incidentally gave the Crusades their strongest impetus and support—the papal sway was supreme But the French kings refusing to admit that their sovereignty depended on the pope stayed outside In a contest for supremacy the French kings won

Clement V pope from 1305 to 1314 who had been Archbishop of Bordeaux never even went to Rome after his elevation transferring his residence to Avignon France instead There he died It was the beginning of the Babylonian Exile of the popes

Papacy Declines

John XXII successor of Clement V also resided at Avignon as did Benedict XII and Clement VI Innocent VI prepared the way for the return to Rome and his successor Urban V actually went there but came back to Avignon to die

Gregory XI the last pope France gave to the church, entered Rome on Jan 17 1377

Now came the Great Schism

The election of Urban VI in the first conclave held in Rome in 75 years was impugned by cardinals who balked at his zeal for reform and were credited with longing for the worldly freedom of Avignon They thereupon elected Clement VII as anti pope which split the church and weakened its prestige The allegiance of Europe was divided

In 1409 occurred the Triple Schism when the Council of Pisa deposed both popes and elevated Alexander V to the papacy

Rome Rises In Influence

But the Vatican had strong recuperative powers and it withstood even the shock of Luther and the Reformation—which resulted in masses of Christians breaking away from Rome and the revolt of Henry VIII of England

Under such Renaissance popes as Nicholas V Rome became the world center of literature and art as it was of ecclesiastical life

In 1506 the foundation stone of St Peter's was laid In 1626 Urban VIII consecrated the cathedral on which 20 popes had labored Here new popes are crowned

The great age of Catholic restoration and reform was headed by Pius V who united Christendom against the Turkish peril liquidated at Lepanto Missions went forth to America China Japan and India

Reign Of Pius X Notable

The 19th century saw a decline of the papacy the 19th a resurgence In the 20th the peace efforts of Pius X and Benedict XV distinguished their reigns

To Pius XI goes the honor of concluding a treaty with Italy—settling a long dispute during which the popes had not ventured from Vatican City of modernizing the Vatican of pleading for brotherhood in a time of dissension among men

Rome no longer holds the temporal power it gained in early centuries But the Catholic church is strong spiritually in every country and men everywhere respect its effort follow closely the activities of its leader in sickness or health

Be True to the Faith

A SERMONETTE

BY REV F A LEHMAN,

Pastor, St Paul's English Lutheran Church

Text Acts 20 28 (Goodspeed translation) Take care of your selves, and of the whole flock of which the Holy Spirit has made you guardians and be shepherds of the Church of God which He got at the cost of His own life

A GREAT deal has been said about denominations of Christendom and a great many comparisons have been made between church bodies We do well to ask ourselves this question Which of the denominations has the true religion? Do Protestants or Catholics have the true road to heaven? Do Methodists Presbyterians Baptists or Lutherans have the key to the Kingdom of God? One stresses predestination another mode of baptism another observing the letter of the law and another the spirit of the law and etc One group says the other group has the wrong interpretation until the laymen of the church and especially the unchurched are in a great state of confusion

What does Christ say? He leaves denominations to men he does not condemn them but he is very firm in saying that we must be true to that which we confess How will he deal with the denominations at the judgment? The answer is contained in the words If we are found faithful? Which means that if you belong to the Methodist denomination you should support what that body recommends and help to eradicate those sins which it condemns If you are a Presbyterian be faithful to Presbyterian doctrine and if a Baptist Lutheran or any other denomination take care of yourselves and of the whole flock of which the Holy Spirit has made you guardians and be shepherds of the Church of God Shepherds are men engaged in keeping the flock together and how can you keep the flock together if you are not faithful to the flock

The sinner is not as much backward in remedying his own shortcomings and if we are to impress sinful human with the [illegible] opportunity for [illegible] that we are untrue to our church One final question Who defeats Christianity the most the unchurched or the man who has his name on church records and is unfaithful to that religious body?" Paul said We are justified by Faith and thus gives every religious body the key to the kingdom of heaven But if you want that key you must be true to the discipline of your church and be found faithful It behooves us therefore to have our church home in the denomination where we can give full cooperation to its teachings and at all times be found faithful to what we confess

Flattery

IF imitation is the sincerest compliment a group of men doing some repair work on a street in the vicinity of the home of a youngster of our acquaintance should feel pretty chesty He's been terribly interested in what the men have been doing this six-year-old and a few days ago was found by his dad sitting on the curb father's lunch box between his knees and munching a sandwich for all the world like a real honest to goodness working man Eating my lunch what d'you spose? was his answer to the query what are you doing here? It developed he had carried home from school that afternoon fashioned himself a peanut butter sandwich put it in the lunchbox and hied himself to the curb to eat it Another proof that we never know when we are being checked up on by these juveniles

Ritzy

THE chatter was merry and gay the radio was good they had just finished a deluxe meal and so far as they were concerned all was well with the world at least their part of it There wasn't even a lull in the conversation so imagine their surprise when the hostess shushed them with listen (then a slight pause) and oh I thought they were singing in Italian For the moment the group thought she had been holding out on them and had visions of one of those folks laughed when I spoke to them in Italian episodes They're still wondering if he was just giving them the old run around or rehearsing for some future date when she really can get away with it

Spring

IF you are a bit weary of the glowering sky the pitterpatter of rain and the sight of the noiseless snow find yourself a garden catalogue or book and move into your favorite summer month And better yet bring spring into the house While it is a little early in the winter for best results we saw a gaily colored garden book which reached the desk this week forsythia and Japanese quince flowers can often be forced into bloom if cut branches are placed in water in a warm place and the buds are syringed daily Pussy willows and the larger flowering goat willows can easily be made to open their catkins at this season And that's that

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Meredith Asks Madge to Bring Katherine to His Room for Last Time

HAL MEREDITH'S voice rose excitedly as he finished his belated tale of unchanging love to Katherine and I imagined I saw a feverish glitter in his eyes Was he taxing his strength too far I asked myself uneasily and wondered if I ought to touch the tiny call button on the table by my side to summon Miss Haskell

With the uncanny instinct so often displayed by people who have hovered over the brink of death he sensed my uneasiness and calmed it

I am [illegible] he said but you needn't worry over my talking longer I have told you everything I wish you to tell Katherine and if you will all the news I wish her to get [illegible] I want him to give me something that will keep me in good hope until I have [illegible] Katherine [illegible] and you have taken her away

Oh I don't mean that I am going to collapse or even lose ground but it isn't going to be the easiest job in the world to say goodby to her and I want to have all the strength—and it's little enough I feel—that I can muster for the ordeal Will you get Katherine here please

Hal Irritated

You mean now I asked in amazement

Of course I mean now he said with a touch of irritation which I was glad to see for experience has taught me that only invalids who feel life returning to them are impatient at trifles

Every minute that she stays here he continued means possible unpleasantness for her and her staying would not help me for I should be worrying about her every second When she is safely out of here I shall make myself get well

I will bring her to you in 10 minutes I promised him mentally computing the time needed for Dr Gates to administer the stimulant which Hal's strength palpably needed

Good he returned And will you see that everyone save yourself is out of the room while I see Katherine for this last time perhaps for years?

Of course I will I said and turned to the door just as Miss Haskell came through it in answer to the summons of the bell

Dr Meredith wishes to speak to you I said and hurried down the hall to our room where Katherine was still sleeping

No Alternative

I hated to rouse her but there had been something so imperative in Hal's manner as to leave me no alternative to doing his bidding I put my hand gently on her wrist in frank imitation of her own procedure when rousing a patient and put a slight pressure upon her arm

She opened her eyes at [illegible] but w[illegible] [illegible] as [illegible] had been [illegible] she had been awake [illegible]

What [illegible] she asked

I have [illegible] for you [illegible] [illegible] I am afraid Will you try [illegible] calmly and [illegible] judge [illegible] question [illegible] until I have finished?

Of course she said and I told her of Hal Meredith's summons and repeated his message word for word

She listened to the end without uttering a syllable but the slow [illegible] color from her face her hands tightly clenched into fists and the strained tension of her eyes told me how strongly my news was stirring her

When the last word had fallen from my lips she waited for a second that seemed an hour her eyes fixed upon my face

Is that all he said? she whispered at last

Yes

She sat up in bed abruptly threw back the bed clothing and stepped to the floor

Help me she said tremulously but with iron resolution beneath the quiver I'm all jittery but I must get to him as soon as I can

Years of Experience Back of Directors of Funeral Home

GROLL - BANFILL HERE FOR YEAR

Proprietors Have Spent More Than Half a Century in Business

More than a half century of experience is back of the men who operate the Groll & Banfill funeral home at 346 East Church street

The proprietors are Charles P Groll of Waldo and C P Banfill of Marion Mr Groll who has been engaged in the undertaking business for 35 years is actively engaged in the operation of a funeral home at Waldo while Mr Banfill manages the home here He has been in this work for 20 years

The Groll & Banfill home was opened here Dec 1 1935 after a partnership had been formed by the two proprietors Mr Banfill came here from northeastern Ohio where he had operated a funeral home for 17 years Previously he had practiced in Indiana and Kentucky Both Mr Groll and Mr Banfill are licensed embalmers and funeral directors

Before opening for business here the firm acquired the residence at 346 East Church street which at one time was one of Marion's finer residences The large house was found to be ideally fitted out for the purposes for which it is now used

The first floor consisting of four large rooms is used for funeral services and the adequate space provided room for seating a large attendance at services The rooms are so arranged that a separate room is available for relatives

One of the advantages the home has to offer is that relatives and friends at services can be placed in their automobiles from a side porch under cover thus avoiding any discomfort in unfavorable weather

The second floor of the home is used as a residence for Mr Banfill and his family Constant care is maintained when bodies are kept at the home over night awaiting funeral services On the basement floor is a sanitary preparation room Also on this floor is located the casket display room where members of the families may make a selection of caskets to suit their needs In addition to this display the home has access to a factory casket display at Waldo

Associated with Mr Croll and Mr Banfill is Leo Croll of Waldo Mrs Croll and Mrs Banfill also serve as lady assistants The home also has an arrangement whereby a woman embalmer can be called when desired

In addition to these services the home maintains a 24 hour ambulance service to any point An invalid bed attachment service which has been a great comfort to many persons confined to their beds by illness or injury also is maintained on a weekly rental basis The device is so constructed that a patient can be raised to nearly any position without being moved from the bed

Once Fine Residence Now Serves As New Funeral Home Here

Above is a view of the Groll & Banfill funeral home at 346 East Church street Formerly one of Marion's finer residences the building is amply proportioned for the use to which it now is put Located in a quiet residential section yet near the central section of the city the home is away from the noise of heavy traffic

RANGE BOILER JACKETS

Tailor made insulating jackets are now available for the common range boiler and at reasonable prices Engineers conservatively estimate that they will save their cost in less than a year and will of course retain the heat in the water for long periods In addition a word may be said for the improved appearance of the jacketed range boiler

A jack that has been invented to lift an entire side of an automobile is designed to be permanently attached to a car and swung out for use

HEAT REFLECTION KEEPS HOUSE COOL

Research has shown that to a large extent the heat in your home in summer is due to radiant heat from the sun Simple means by which a considerable amount of this heating effect of the sun may be retarded are the use of awnings which is the most common by the use of window shades which are coated with aluminum foil or aluminum paint on the side exposed to the sun or by the use of Venetian blinds on which the outside of the slats are painted with aluminum paint

By exposing metallic surfaces to the sun the radiant heat is reflected to a sufficient degree to produce added summer comfort When coated shades or Venetian blinds are used the windows should always be opened slightly preferably at top and bottom to allow for a small amount of ventilation between the window and

GRAVEL BED

In cold New England or elsewhere where houses are frequently built without gutter a bed of gravel or brick next to against the foundation wall to catch the drip will be a great convenience and keep mud from splashing against the woodwork

NEWS OF STAGE AND SCREEN

JEAN HARLOW IN MARION ROLE

Has Lead in Suzy Coming To Local Theater Sunday and Monday

Suzy an engrossing drama starring Jean Harlow in the title role with Franchot Tone and Cary Grant as the suitors will return to the Marion screen Sunday and Monday. [illegible] Bob Allen [illegible] Rio Grande Ranger.

Suzy gave Miss Harlow a new kind of role unlike anything she had done before and she proved herself more than a platinum blonde type.

With Tone and Grant as war time aviators both of whom incidentally she marries Miss Harlow plays the part of an American chorus girl who is stranded in London just before the World War breaks out.

The two marriages present a problem which frequently affords conjecture among women. The girl marries the first man and in the intrigue of the war days he is mysteriously shot under circumstances which indicate her guilt. Believing him to be dead the terrified girl runs away to Paris and there after a respectable elapse of time remarries. Her second husband also a combat pilot is unfaithful and she is unhappy. Then the first man reappears. The girl learns from him that spies shot him and that her present husband is involved with them. Together the pair go to warn him but the spies already have killed him fearing that he will tell what he knows. The matter is adjusted eventually in a feat of heroism that not only buries the unfaithful husband with honors but brings the original lovers together in peace.

Iris Meredith a comparative newcomer to the screen is Allen's leading woman in the western picture. Allen plays the part of a two-gun ranger who is sent over the border to lure a gang of desperadoes back to the jurisdiction of the rangers so that they can be apprehended.

Happy Go-Lucky a first run picture with Phil Regan and Evelyn Venable supplying romance will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday. A return showing will be given the Lady Raffles pictures The Return of Sophie Lang in which Gertrude Michael Ray Milland and Sir Guy Standing have featured roles.

In addition to Regan's singing in Happy-Go Lucky there is a chorus of 50 Chinese dancing girls in four Occidental numbers typical of shows for the cosmopolitan crowds of Shanghai China. An exact duplicate of several blocks of Shanghai was constructed at the Harold Lloyd studios in Westwood for the purpose of filming the majority of the scenes utilizing hundreds of Orientals and occidentals in a mingling of seaport night life.

He-man Jack Holt is starred in the Thursday Saturday picture North of Nome. It's a tale of seal poachers and hijackers in a country where might is right. The story deals with a seal poacher sorely troubled by a hijacking thug. In attempt to shake the thug the poacher dynamites a dock and strands himself on one of the corporation-owned islands that have been the scene of his illegal seal hunting. A shipwreck enables him to show his heroism and among the rescued is lovely Evelyn Venable and a judge who is also a director of the company which owns the island. In the climax the poacher defeats the thug wins freedom for the group wins the girl and a pardon from the judge for himself. A Bob Steele western Border Phantom will be shown on the same bill.

STIRRING DRAMA REENACTED IN "THE PLAINSMAN" AT PALACE

Above are scenes from the epic drama, The Plainsman and the principal players Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur. The picture started at the Palace today and will remain through Tuesday. More than 2,000 Cheyenne Indians from the Tongue River reservation were put to work in the battle scenes reenacting the massacre of General Custer and his Seventh Cavalry at Little Big Horn on June 25 1876.

"The Plainsman" Opens At Palace for 4 Days

Cecil B DeMille's Great American Epic Stars Garry Cooper in Story of Old West

The winning of the west during the decade from 1866 to 1876 is the basis of Cecil B DeMille's first American epic The Plainsman which opened at the Palace today to remain through Tuesday.

Following the epic drama will be Bulldog Drummond Escapes on Wednesday a Charlie Ruggles comedy Mind Your Own Business on Thursday and the brand new picture of the Emerald Isle Beloved Enemy with Merle Oberon and Brian Aherne on Friday and Saturday. A stage show Broadway Highlights will add to the Thursday bill.

The Plainsman named for Wild Bill Hickok the famous plainsman tells of the love he bore for the frontier beauty and woman-of-action Calamity Jane.

Gary Cooper plays Hickok and Jean Arthur portrays Calamity Jane the first time they have been together since Mr Deeds Goes to Town.

One of Hollywood's major make up achievements wherein the entire wartime cabinet of Abraham Lincoln together with the Great Emancipator and other historical figures of the day are brought back to life will be seen in the picture.

Master Makeup

The master stroke of make-up is considered that of John Miljan in the role of General George A Custer. Miljan noted screen actor was selected for the role because his measurements are almost exactly those of the famous general according to war department records and he is a blond as was Custer. The role of Broken Nose Jack McCall who killed Wild Bill in the Bella Union Saloon at Deadwood City in 1876 is handled by Porter Hall one of the screen's finest villains. The man who saw the slaying Captain Jim Moore supervised the sequences. It was from his descriptions that a replica of the saloon was made. The shooting occurred when Hickok who had been sent west to find out who was selling rifles to the Indians in violation of a government order found that McCall and others were the guilty ones. He rounded them up in the saloon and engaged them in a poker game pending the arrival of army authorities. Cowardly McCall slipped away from the table and fired into the unsuspecting Hickok's back. It was recalled by Moore that Hickok held aces and eights in his hand when he fell a fact which is responsible for the term dead man's hand still used in poker for such a hand.

Ray Milland whom many theatergoers consider Robert Taylor's equal if given the same opportunities and lovely Heather Angel are featured in Bulldog Drummond Escapes in which is narrated further adventures of the debonair Englishman.

Without Mary Boland

Charlie Ruggles is without Mary Boland for the first time in a long while in Mind Your Own Business a comedy of birds bees trees racketeers Boy Scouts and newspapermen. His doting loving and often maternal screen wife in his latest picture is Alice Brady. The cast also includes Lyle Talbot Jack LaRue Bennie Baker and Frankie Darow. Ruggles is seen as a newspaperman editor of the Birds and Bees column on a large daily.

Beloved Enemy has been referred to as The Informer in dress suit. Aherne is the leader of the Irish revolutionists and Miss Oberon is the daughter of the English officer sent to crush the rebellion. David Niven the Englishman to whom Miss Oberon is engaged in real life is cast in the picture in the role of a disappointed lover.

To satisfy a vast public two endings were filmed one a logical tragic finish to the story and another happier conclusion for fans who insist on a happy ending. It hasn't been announced which final chapter will be shown at the Palace.

Flood Control Limitations

A depressing result of the flood disaster's early beginning this year is awareness of the limitations of flood control.

No amount of prevention can provide complete assurance of safety in valley areas. Unusually heavy rainfall can upset the best laid plans because it rarely is feasible to anticipate a greater deluge in planning flood control than weather records show. The rainfall of the last few days exceeds all reasonable expectations for Ohio in so brief a period.

Portsmouth, whose flood wall last spring was the nation's favorite example of the wisdom of a stitch in time, may share the Ohio valley's flood damage this year. Though the wall still stands and has served its purpose, its limit of usefulness has been reached and exceeded by an unusually high flood level.

That doesn't mean the wall hasn't proved its value. The Miami district, the Muskingum district, the flood control measures for the protection of Pittsburgh—all are worth many times their cost even though absolute protection against floods is no more possible than absolute protection against disease, accident, crime or any other threat to human safety.

Sympathetic Interest

Aviation needed a pat on the back.

A new transcontinental speed record of 7½ hours set by Howard R. Hughes, who previously had covered the same distance in 9½ hours, proves aviation still is up and coming.

That, of course, doesn't need proving. The recent series of accidents to commercial transports wasn't that serious. Whatever confidence was lost will be won back many times over by the closer precautions taken to prevent other accidents in the future.

It is said some times that aviation is cursed with too much publicity. An accident to an air transport is important news; the whole country hears about it; the thing is exaggerated far beyond its intrinsic importance, sensitive defenders say.

If any answer is needed, the newest transcontinental speed record gives it. When a man can sit in an airship and hurtle himself through space for 2500 miles at an average speed of 333 miles an hour, that's news. Why? Because it's news. Sympathetic interest, not persecution, is the motive for America's constant and intensive watchfulness over all events in aviation.

Child Labor

The question of a child labor amendment has been reopened with more promise of settlement than has been given any time during the long debate over the issue.

President Roosevelt, former President Hoover and Alfred M. Landon all have recommended immediate action.

President Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover indorse a constitutional amendment now awaiting action by the states. Mr. Landon, representing another school of opinion, believes congress should invoke the interstate commerce clause to prohibit interstate shipments of goods in which child labor has been a factor. Alfred E. Smith once advanced this opinion when he was editor of The New Outlook.

There is universal disapproval of child labor. There is not, however, universal agreement on the means of curbing it. In the 18th amendment the United States tried to correct a widespread evil with a blanket law covering all states and all conditions. In the 21st amendment it conceded that the principle of the 18th amendment could not be applied successfully.

It would be a grievous error if the same principle were to be imposed again in another form with similar disillusionment and confusion.

Orchids for Mr. Landis

It [illegible] the [illegible] of orchids around the feet of James M. Landis, chairman of the federal securities exchange commission.

Mr. Landis [illegible] left a good job in Harvard university to serve under Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy on the securities and exchange commission—one of the toughest outposts of reform established by the new deal. When Mr. Kennedy, [illegible] a broker by occupation, resigned, Mr. Landis was appointed to succeed him.

Few believed Mr. Landis could handle the bulls and bears [illegible] Mr. Kennedy [illegible]. He surprised the doubters [illegible] where Mr. Kennedy had left off. When [illegible] was announced a few days ago that Harvard university had appointed him dean of its law school, a position second in importance to the presidency of the university, a veritable chorus of praise was started. Mr. Landis, who is only 37 years old, must be blushing.

The public service of Mr. Landis is one of the bright spots of the Roosevelt administration's experiment with academic appointees—in fact, the brightest spot. It proves what really doesn't need proving: that good government is largely a matter of capable personnel. Even a college professor can win applause when he does a good job, a fact which should interest all potential [illegible] brain trusters who think they are being put on the spot.

Roosevelt Views Auto Strike

The situation in Michigan is somewhat parallel to what happened in Italy in the sit-down strikes in 1920 when the workmen not only seized the plants but went further when they attempted to produce goods and sell them, a development which was the forerunner of government intervention in the form of fascism.

May Be Important Precedent

Today the governor of Michigan has actually counselled the sheriff—the law enforcement [illegible] [illegible] a [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] because [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] than [illegible] [illegible] decided [illegible] Mr. Martin [illegible] to have been [illegible] If [illegible] low [illegible] properly [illegible] by [illegible] the [illegible] strike [illegible].

The [illegible] is no longer [illegible] Mr. [illegible] on the doorstep of the White House and the President [illegible] deep in the recesses of his [illegible] with perhaps the most difficult problem he has yet faced.

Some indication of the way the events are shaping up may be seen in the [illegible] by John L. Lewis [illegible] the administration [illegible] the [illegible] in a very [illegible] way. Mr. Lewis points out that the employers in the [illegible] differed in their political views from the administration and that this means they ought now be punished or at least that the full power of the government should be thrown on the side of the strikers.

Mr. Lewis and his affiliated organizations contributed upwards of $1,000,000 to help reelect Mr. Roosevelt and the Lewis group is not averse to reminding the administration of its obligations in that respect.

Mr. Roosevelt does not of course wish to give any impression that his sympathies are for or against any group. His primary interest is to see that when a big industry like motor production and accessories is tied up, profits are not earned. Profits, of course, are counted upon to yield taxes in increasing quantities this year to help balance the budget. If General Motors loses out and the other motor companies are then taken in hand as Mr. Lewis publicly threatens, it will be a short step for other organizations of workmen to rise up in other industries and by seizure of the property of the employers force a capitulation to their demands.

Facts Not Yet At Hand

The most interesting thing about the controversy is that nobody has moved to get the facts. General Motors claims that 71 per cent of the employes want to work and that Lewis and his group represent a minority. Petitions have been signed by many thousands of workers asking that they be permitted to go back to work.

What does the majority say? The Wagner labor relations act provides machinery for holding secret ballot elections to determine what is the will of the majority in a plant or an industry, as the national labor relations board may designate. But before the elections could be held there is another point which the General Motors management evidently deems of paramount importance. Shall the occupation of private property be condoned as a proper weapon of economic force? If it is, then it will be contended that property rights are at the vanishing point in America and the pathway to fascism with all its inevitable and deplorable restrictions of the individual would seem to be opened, notwithstanding the earnest protestations of the President that America can and shall preserve democracy.

So the issue is definitely up to the President and he may have an opportunity sooner than he anticipated to show that private autocratic power, whether it arises from employers or employes, cannot dictate to the government or to the people by taking the law into their own hands.

A Quiet Battle

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan 23—So much obscured by newer and noisier WPA and PWA is the reclamation bureau that a growing battle to head the bureau almost has been overlooked.

The reclamation service, which has the job of building dams to make the desert blossom, was directed by Elwood Mead for so many years that Mead and reclamation became almost synonymous. Months ago he died and since then John C. Page, Mead's second in command, has been acting commissioner.

John C. Page

The long time problem of reclamation enthusiasts has been to demonstrate that federal money advanced for reclamation is not lost but will be repaid into the reclamation fund to help build more dams for more reclamation.

Power Link

The going became doubly hard when crop surpluses began to pile up and lend fuel to the eastern and midwestern argument that the government was bringing more land into production with one hand while trying to throttle production on the other. Desperately, reclamationists argued that [illegible] on irrigation projects consumed as much as they produced in the long run.

An old and mouldering idea also helped the dam builder. Why not develop power to offset part of the cost and also charge some to flood control and navigation? Under that theory Boulder dam on the Colorado, and Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams on the Columbia river, and part of the Tennessee Valley project found shelter.

But handling of several of these jobs was taken out of the reclamation service and the bureau's prestige suffered.

Ross Suggested

Probably the most powerful individual candidate advanced for the office is J. D. Ross, until recently a securities and exchange commissioner and for many years superintendent of the Seattle municipal power system.

Appearing last spring at a hearing to discuss what to do with Bonneville power, Ross proposed a vast grid system interlocking Grand Coulee, Bonneville, the Seattle and Tacoma municipal systems and projects as far south as northern California.

Acting Commissioner Page, who wants to be commissioner, and is looked upon as less power minded than Ross.

Several favorite sons have been put forward, the latest of whom is Lawrence C. Bashore of Idaho. He is deemed a stout friend of reclamation but is not an engineer. It has [illegible] that an engineer is wanted.

It's Just A Little Game

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan 23—TVA Chairman Arthur Morgan read in his breakfast paper the other day that he was resigning. Newsmen caught him later and discovered he had never thought of it. Said Dr. Morgan: "I know the source of the rumor."

So did the newsmen. They said nothing in print. The unbroken rule of their profession requires them not to divulge sources of information. But some are beginning to weary of protecting sources using them for inaccurate propaganda purposes. One or two are getting around to the point where they might be willing to swear, if necessary, that the Morgan resignation rumor came from one of Morgan's subordinates in TVA who may have been desirous of getting him out.

That has been done before in other departments. In fact, rumor planting has been something of an avocation of a few (not many) officials holding responsible positions in the new order. It is generally the result of bitter inside struggling to pull President Roosevelt this way or that on certain policies. This time it was power.

The President knows what is going on. In this case as usual the rumor planter appears to have injured his hand seriously by overplaying it.

Wriggling

Mr. Roosevelt gave his new power policy committee only two weeks to recommend a government power policy. The reason was the President knew just about what he wanted and so did his new committeemen.

He neglected to mention it, but he already had a power policy committee when he named this new one. He appointed it a year ago. On it were nearly all the men named on this new one with a remarkable exception. TVA Commissioner David Lilienthal was omitted.

This furnished tip enough to those on the inside that the current headlines predicting Lilienthal will win his policy struggle with Dr. Morgan may not pan out.

A better guess would be that Mr. Roosevelt is trying to work out a broader practical policy for each area in which the government will sell power, probably along the lines of the policy outlined in the Bonneville bill passed last session in congress. He will go far beyond the Lilienthal-Morgan scrap about TVA pooling and establish something he hopes will stand up in court.

The appointment of Brain Truster Ben Cohen as legal counsel of the new committee indicated that.

Method

What is behind the whole scrap is simply this: Lilienthal wants to use an administrative machine gun on private power interests. So does Senator Norris. They do not trust any power company anywhere. To them there are no good ones. They want the government to build transmission lines and put the private companies out of business. Dr. Morgan is not opposed to the machine gun, but would try a blackjack first. He suggests the government make an agreement with the private companies to split the power distribution business and kill them off later if necessary.

While these principals are getting the headlines, the McNinch-Manley school of New Orderers seem to be quietly running the show. They do not like machine guns or blackjacks. Chloroform is their dish. They would make their policy painless—and legal. They would break up the TVA administrative dynasty and put the power problems under themselves as chairman and No. 2 man on the Federal Power Commission. They seem likely to win.

But no matter who wins, there will never be a better example of the subordinate policy workings within the new order. The only watch word is: Every man for himself. However, in the end, well framed policies usually develop from scraps like this.

Grrrr

Newspapers do occasionally make mistakes themselves. Chief of Staff Malin Craig, tough old time army man, led the inaugural parade as grand marshal. He rode his horse through the beating rain without umbrella or tarpaulin for himself or steed. At the end he came up to sitting behind the President, his boots sloshing with rain water. After it was all over he went home, put his feet in warm water, picked up the paper and read:

"Gen. Craig dismounted early in the parade and finished in a closed car."

The detonation was heard as far as New York.

Appreciation

Gov. Blanton Winship of Puerto Rico reported to the state department that the Spanish war did at least one good thing. It convinced many a Puerto Rican nationalist who visited Spain that the American flag is something to have flying over you. One such former zealot for independence said he would have been satisfied in Spain to have had an American flag the size of a postage stamp.

The Voice of "Old Hickory"

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan 23—Anyone who can't walk out of a shoe store wearing a new pair of shoes without first breaking them in is a sissy. That's the trouble with this country. We are going soft. Too much mayonnaise and caviar. Not enough black strap sorghum and corn pone. It's Old Hickory talking.

We need the forbearance of our forbears. Nice tongue rolling phrase: "forbearance of our forbears." Am I dynamite at phrasing! Our ancestors yanked on a stiff pair of hand made boots at sun up and tugged them off with a bootjack at sun down without a tweet.

Which reminds me of the story they used to tell of a shiftless character in Gallipolis who piled in bed one night after a coon hunt with shoes, clothes and all. After awhile his wife shook him. "Get up. You got your shoes on." To which he mumbled: "That's all right. They ain't my good ones."

Anyway, here I am in new shoes on my way to a party in East 73d street, a mile away. I'll just walk and get the shine off the new kicks. What's a mile? I used to walk five miles to school and back in my Little Daisy red top boots.

• • •

What a lovely day on the avenue. That zip in the air. Like the beady head of vintage wine. Glittering geegaws in the shop windows. Shine of brass and the clear scour of marble. The purr of costly limousines. Glint of rare furs. Everywhere plush and satined elegance. Anyone who thinks it isn't perfectly dandy to be alive is a sucker. I'd like to have about 10 more shots at this business called living. It's the berries.

• • •

Well, here are five blocks. A quarter mile and only 15 blocks to go. And the Old Faithfuls have come through without a twinge. I feel as though I might be barefoot Skippy. Not even Little Horatio, that teensy corn, is acting up. When that baby puts on an act it is a hunk of show.

• • •

No use in rushing along as though I might be going to a fire. There's plenty of time. I'll gab with a starter in front of Pierre's. He used to be at a hotel where I lived. As a matter of fact, with all the time I have I'll step in the hallway and sit awhile. Nothing beats a soft cushioned divan for comfort. Don't say anything now, but I'm beginning to feel a mite burny about the instep. Nothing I can't laugh off. See: Ha ha and ho ho. I've laughed off man and boy worse things than burning insteps.

• • •

So that's that. Am I man or mouse? Well, maybe a little mousey around the edges, but at heart a lion. Anyway, a cub lion. Letting a new pair of shoes throw me for a loss after only five blocks. Just another little Rollo who can't take it. Oh, I am, am I? Well, watch my smarts. Off I go. Of course I could take a taxi from here. But that would be showing the white feather. I'd look sweet gallivanting the avenue stuck up with a feather. It might be a start to a bird [illegible] nest. I'm beginning to talk daffy. (Voice: Beginning?) No use trying to act nonchalant longer. These shoes are killing me. Headline: "Man in Tight Shoes Runs Amuck on the Avenue." I hope if I go berserk they won't lasso me as they do a wild steer. I bruise easily.

• • •

That doorman is eggering up with a breath you could chin yourself on to inquire: "Anything wrong, mister?" Nobody ever misters me but drunks. He'll be wanting to waltz with me next. Stews always do. The back of my hand to that party in East 73d. I'm going to hop—I mean crawl—into a taxi and go on home. The carpet slippers will [illegible] low rocker and fire in the [illegible] bab[illegible].

• • •

I'll give anyone in [illegible] mean [illegible] art and out [illegible] to one. [illegible] that a lulu? Right from [illegible] I've got something [illegible] give me a chance to [illegible] shoes off awhile. The [illegible] one. Hot dog! [illegible] feet out [illegible] cool. Is this heaven? [illegible] on that left heel that wo[illegible] upper to run around. I [illegible] drive by that [illegible] the [illegible] shoe in that [illegible] the [illegible] relief after [illegible] off pinchy shoes [illegible] burst into song. For [illegible] suppose I can't get them [illegible] I'll probably meet everybody padding through the [illegible] sock feet.

Germans Ready for 'Chute Foes

Defense Steps Outlined Against Invasion from Sky

In this second and concluding article on parachute troops coming from the skies is presented the defensive steps which the military minds in Germany have devised to halt any mass landings from airplanes.

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(International News Service Correspondent)

BERLIN, Jan 23—Forewarned [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] that Russia has developed a new war weapon of [illegible] [illegible] parachute troops and equipment, German [illegible] are already considering [illegible] and [illegible] of warding off such surprise in [illegible] [illegible].

There is a general feeling [illegible] Moscow has somewhat exaggerated [illegible] new weapon for [illegible] [illegible] has been added to modern w[illegible] [illegible] German military [illegible] frankly admit that [illegible] a component [illegible] [illegible] weapons has [illegible] [illegible].

For the weapon has not been [illegible] one [illegible] against which there has been invented about the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] reason there is nothing [illegible] about parachute [illegible] [illegible] weapons there [illegible] a way to fight it.

Probable Defense

The actual steps taken by the military authorities [illegible] of [illegible] infantry [illegible] not known but the [illegible] of German military thought on [illegible] subject—and which probably [illegible] pretty closely the [illegible] being followed—are [illegible] what as follows:

Enemy aircraft in small or large number in a country like Germany is immediately spotted by the nation-wide organization of the air defense forces, equipped to [illegible] and follow every move of [illegible] throughout the land and [illegible] posted well in advance, all aircraft and airport authorities [illegible] set in motion all [illegible] mediums at their disposal.

Firstly, invading airforces [illegible] [illegible] landing troops by parachute can be met with a counterforce [illegible] scouts and fighting [illegible] harassing their progress and [illegible] with machine gun bullets [illegible] released parachute.

Secondly, increase [illegible] transports because if huge numbers should succeed in landing large forces, rapid motorized detachments equipped with machine guns, grenades, even field pieces, could be organized [illegible] the specific purpose of [illegible] with such emergencies. [illegible] of such [illegible] infantry [illegible] stationed inconspicuously [illegible] zones from where they [illegible] rushed in sufficient time [illegible] affected area.

Armored Car Formidable

Thirdly, and perhaps one of the most effective counters upon infantry dropped [illegible] armored car or light tank squadrons of which can be organized [illegible] speed to the area where [illegible] parachute troops are coming [illegible] and deal with them [illegible] manner. As moving armies [illegible] hardly be expected to spare armored cars and tanks for developments that happen to occur in the vicinity, it is felt that special armored and light tank anti-air infantry detachments should be informed.

Fourth and finally, there is [illegible] possibility of trusting defense [illegible] interior points to the hands of German police, which is well armed, well trained and which could [illegible] specifically supplied with [illegible] weapons to dealing with [illegible] parachute troops. Police [illegible] case could cope with the [illegible] until reserves from the [illegible] quarters have been rushed up.

TOLEDO

Toledo is the outgrowth of towns on the Maumee river—Port Lawrence above the center [illegible] of what is now Toledo, and [illegible] a mile or two south of the [illegible] Port Lawrence. Port Lawrence [illegible] established in 1817, Vistula in [illegible].

As soon as Vistula was [illegible] a sharp rivalry started between the two towns for supremacy. [illegible] grew rapidly and before either [illegible] aware of it they had grown together and were substantially one town.

In 1833 the two towns united by incorporation [illegible] [illegible] to be known as Toledo—[illegible] after the city of [illegible] in Spain.

St. Mary Cagers Lose to Fostoria St. Wendelin, 30-17

PAROCHIAL TEAMS ALSO DROP TWO PRELIMINARY TILTS

Crowd of More Than 300 Sees Three Contests on Shovel Gym Court.

BY CHARLES HOSTETTER

Before a home crowd estimated at more than 300 St Mary Parochial High cagers last night fell before a strong St Wendelin quintet of Fostoria, dropping the varsity game 30 to 17 and the reserve conflict, 16 to 5

It was the work of F Magers, center of the visiting first team which baffled the Marion quintet. Magers clever footwork found him working through the local defense and registering 10 field goals or more points than the entire St Mary team

The visitors held a 6 to 5 lead at the end of the first period and outscored St Mary 12 to 6 in the second period to hold an 18 to 11 advantage at the halftime rest period. The local team came back strong after the half and outscored St Wendelin 6 to 4 in the third period but failed to score a single point in the closing stanza when the visitors displayed a strengthened defense

Myers Leads St Mary

Myers forward of the St Mary team was the top scorer of the local quintet. He registered on four field goals to account for eight points followed by his teammate Feldner who tallied four points on two action shots In the reserve game between the two schools both teams went scoreless in the opening period and Fostoria led 4 to 2 at the half

Another preliminary which opened the cage program at the Shovel gymnasium resulted in a 24 to 14 victory for the Central Junior High team over the St Mary Junior High quintet

LOU LITTLE QUITS CHAIRMANSHIP OF GRID RULES BOARD

Advises Letting Alone Pass Interference Controversy for Time Being

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Jan 23—Lou Little resigned chairmanship of the American Football coaches rules committee with the advice to leave the controversial pass interference rule alone for the time being

Instead of a change in the current pass-defense ruling on the books Columbia's coach suggests sharper interpretation by officials with fuller recognition of the rights of the defensive team to the ball as well as protection for the offensive receiver

Little's announcement of his resignation as chairman of the coaches rules committee came as a surprise Harry Kipke Michigan coach and president of the American Football Coaches association named Ray Morrison of Vanderbilt to preside at the meeting Feb 6 at which coaches will review suggested changes in the gridiron law

Little now is recuperating in the Bahamas from a series of critical hip bone operations to correct an ailment and will be absent from the conference
